Bridget 28 y.o.

Emily 25 y.o.

Jean and I have been empty nesters now for quite awhile. Jean started her own lifestyle publishing company 7 years ago called Riverhouse Media. I am a social worker at an alternative high/middle school in Lees Summit, Missouri, for the past 6 years. Our son Andrew is a luthier (makes symphonic wooden instruments) here in Kansas City for K.C. Strings. Bridget is a poet and writer and just moved to St. Louis from New York this past month. Emily is the Executive Director of the Democratic Party in San Francisco. All are healthy and enjoying life to the best of our abilities every day. My fond memories of high school have to be laughing until I was sick over the antics of Mike Fox, and I thank God every day for the Christian Brothers and Father Heles coming into my life when they did. Singing "Tuesday Afternoon" at the top of our lungs at the Ellis Blvd. A&W in Mike's Corvair, and Kaminski and Becker being the greatest football coaches any kid could ever want, regardless of our record. I remember the "Knight Lights" band with Jim Fields as their drummer, and great dances in the cafeteria after the games. I could go on forever. My spare time is spent playing and singing folk music, mostly Irish, in local establishments and at different events and festivals. I enjoy cycling, and do various group and charity rides throughout the year, and flyfishing whenever possible. Comments for classmates? Thanks for the memories. The lessons learned since 1969 are still not finished. Every day I seem to learn something new. When you see me please don't ask "why were you such an asshole in high school?"
